About This Portfolio

This portfolio documents a selection of contracts I helped win for clients as their proposal strategist and writer. My role across these engagements spanned opportunity identification, RFP analysis, technical approach development, pricing strategy, compliance documentation, and final submission. Each award here represents a complete proposal process from blank page to contract win.

I specialize in helping small and mid-size service businesses enter and win federal, state, and municipal contracts. My clients typically come to me without prior government contracting experience. I have maintained a 90% award rate across all proposals I have submitted on behalf of clients. What you see in this portfolio is a representative sample of that track record.

How I Work

Every engagement follows a structured four-step process designed to give your proposal the best possible chance of winning. Here is what working with me looks like from start to finish.

Step 01 Opportunity Analysis

I review the full solicitation, evaluate fit against your capabilities, identify evaluation criteria and scoring weights, flag compliance risks, and give you a clear go or no-go recommendation before any writing begins. You never waste money bidding on contracts you cannot win.

Step 02 Strategy & Research

I map your strengths against the agency's stated priorities, research competing vendors, develop your win themes, and build the pricing strategy. This is where the proposal is won before a single word is written.

Step 03 Proposal Development

I write all required volumes including technical approach, management plan, past performance, pricing narrative, and compliance matrix. Every section is written to evaluation criteria, not just to answer the question.

Step 04 Submission & Support

I conduct a final compliance review before submission. After award or rejection I can provide debrief analysis to identify what worked and what to improve on the next bid.

Client Feedback

Here is what clients have said after working with me.

“Our proposal had the highest rating of all the vendors and I have been invited for a final in-person interview.”

This contract covered comprehensive digital employment advertising services for the Richmond Behavioral Health Authority. The contract required detailed analytics reporting, real-time campaign optimization, and integration with RBHA's internal applicant tracking systems. The initial period was two years with four two-year renewal options.

My Contribution

I managed this engagement from RFP analysis through final award. I developed all six tabs required by the solicitation including qualifications narrative, demonstrated knowledge section, full pricing schedule with two tiered packages, and all compliance attachments. I positioned the client's existing five-year relationship with RBHA since 2020 as the central differentiator and built the technical approach around their multi-channel digital capability to establish them as the lowest-risk vendor in the field.

Following submission, the client informed me that the proposal received the highest technical rating among all competing vendors. He was then invited to a final in-person oral presentation. I developed the full presentation deck and a corresponding one-page summary document used during the interview. The combination of the written proposal score and the oral presentation resulted in the contract being awarded.

Outcome

Highest-Rated Proposal + Contract Awarded

3XG Enterprises LLC received the highest technical rating among all competing vendors at the written proposal stage. Following a successful oral presentation using the deck I prepared, RBHA awarded the contract. This engagement demonstrates full-cycle support from written submission through competitive oral presentation, resulting in a contract valued at up to $124,800 annually with renewal potential.

My Role	Proposal Strategist and Writer

Scope of Work

This contract covered weekly laundry services for the 711th Human Performance Wing at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. The scope encompassed approximately 235 pounds of weekly laundry volume across three distinct service categories: Operational Equipment (OE), Facility Equipment (FE), and Residential Housing (RH). Services included standard laundry processing, 160 degree Fahrenheit thermal treatment for contaminated linens per CDC healthcare standards, separate facility handling for infectious disease items, vehicle sanitation using EPA-approved germicidal agents, minor garment repairs at no additional cost, and 24-hour emergency delivery capability. All pricing was structured FOB Destination to Wright-Patterson AFB.

My Contribution

I prepared the complete proposal package for this BPA, including the cover letter, executive summary, technical capability statement, and representations and certifications. The technical capability statement was structured to address each of the five mandatory acceptability criteria in the Performance Work Statement: 160 degree wash capability, separate infectious disease facility, vehicle sanitation compliance, minor repair capability, and 24-hour emergency delivery. I wrote the compliance narrative to directly mirror the PWS requirements section by section, leaving no evaluation gap for the contracting officer.

I also structured the pricing narrative to reflect the three-category service segmentation required by the solicitation and positioned Tebebi LLC as technically compliant and operationally ready for a 1 April 2026 performance start.

Outcome

Contract Awarded

Tebebi LLC was awarded the Laundry Services BPA for the 711th Human Performance Wing at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. This is the second Air Force base laundry contract won by Tebebi LLC with proposals I prepared, demonstrating repeatable results across different Air Force installations and contracting offices.
